

“It’s deplorable for Thames Water to still be considering Barn Elms as a super sewer location when an alternative brownfield site exists. This is the busiest stretch of the river for water sports, and is used by everyone from complete novices to Olympic athletes to train and enjoy one of the most beautiful spots in London. Home to the Oxford and Cambridge boat race viewed by millions each year, how can we let this iconic view be turned into a super sewer site?”

Tracy Edwards MBE.